

Name: Date:

Planning sheet

Title:

This sheet is to help you record what you will need to do to make a start on your project.

Who do you need?

What do you need?

What will it cost?

How long will it take?

Who is it for?
(Audience)

Comments:

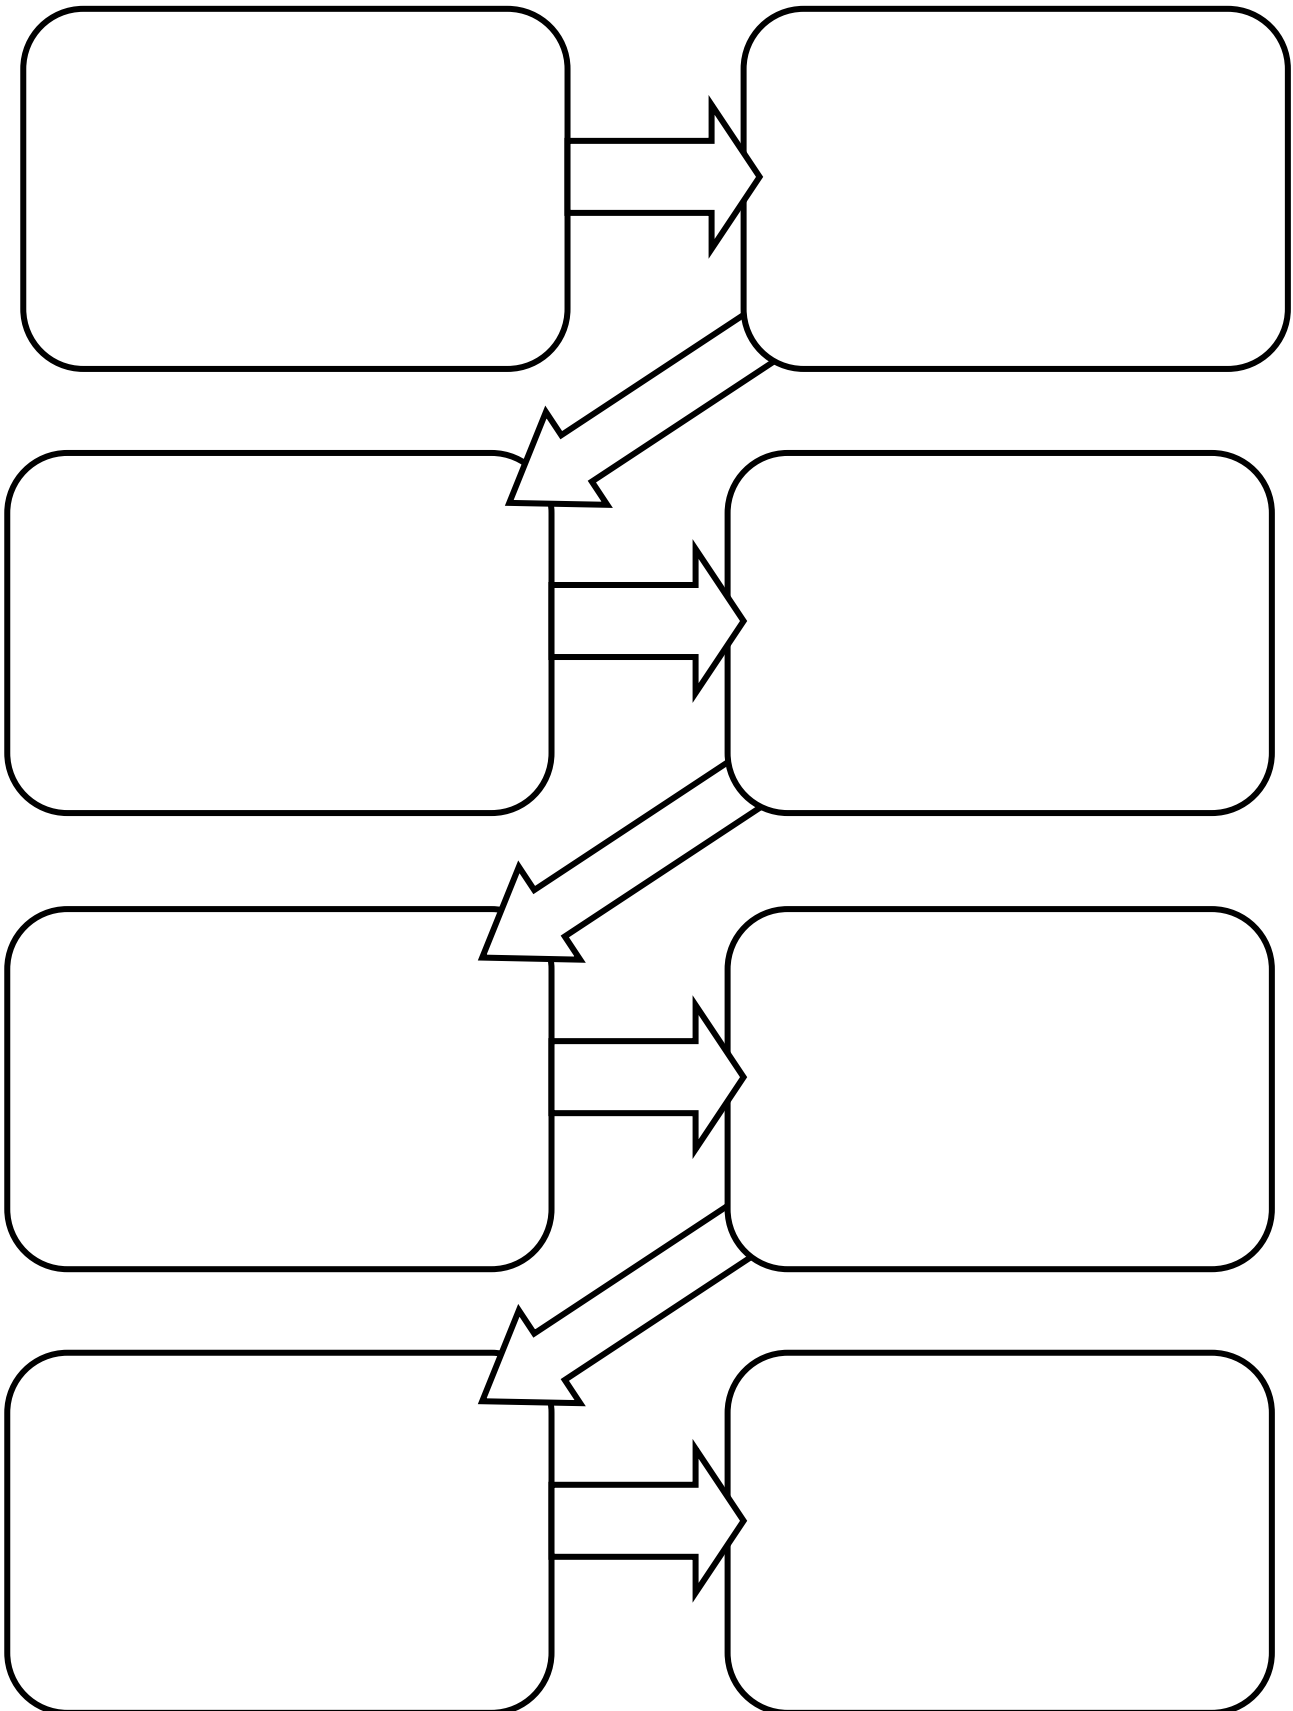

.....

.....

.....

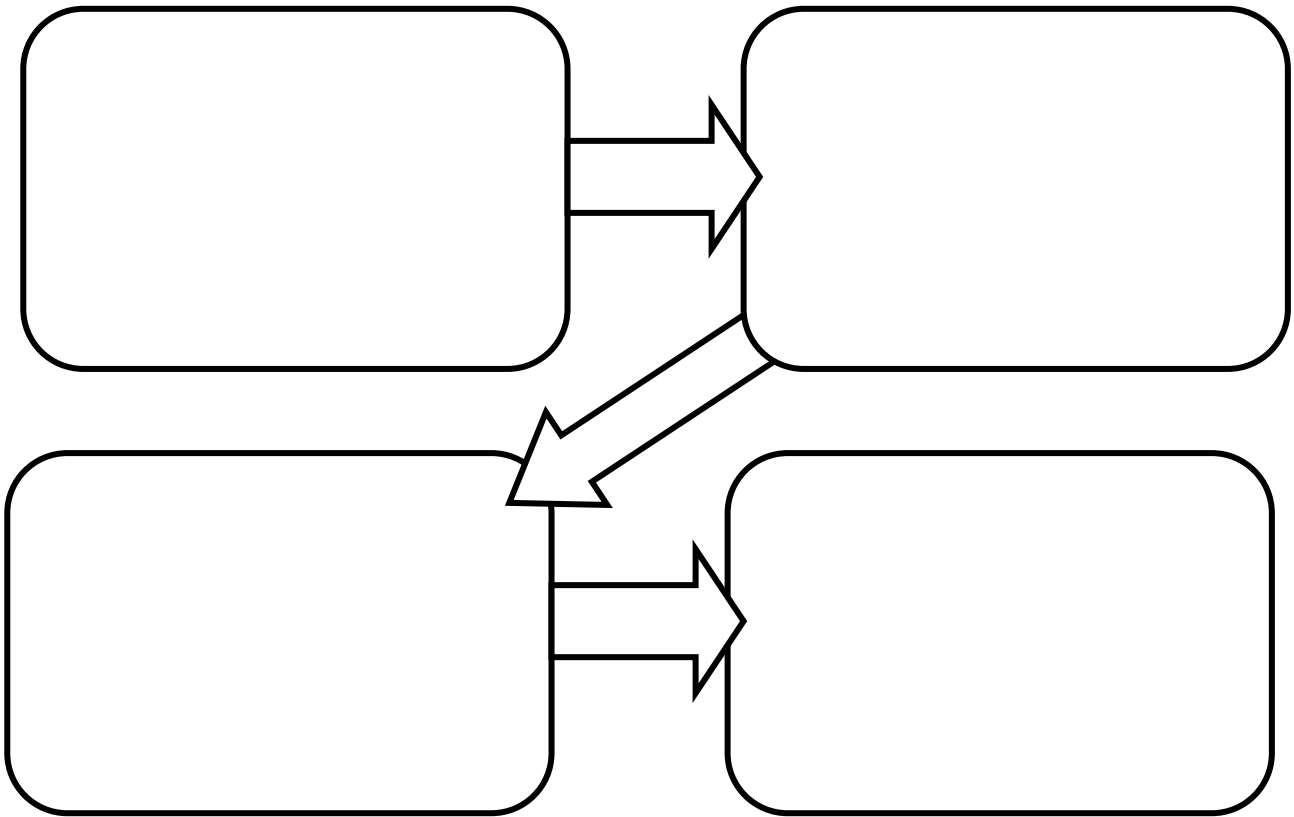

Name: Date:

Storyboard

A storyboard template consisting of eight rounded rectangular panels arranged in two columns of four. The panels are connected by arrows indicating a sequence of events. On the left column, three double-headed arrows connect the first, second, and third panels to the fourth panel. On the right column, three double-headed arrows connect the first, second, and third panels to the fourth panel. Additionally, a single-headed arrow points from the top-right panel to the top-left panel, and another single-headed arrow points from the second-right panel to the second-left panel. This layout suggests a non-linear or branching narrative structure.

Name: Date:

Information/Notes:

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

Name: Date:

Review sheet

This sheet is to help you record the success of your project.

Did you work well together?

Were the resources used the right ones?

Did you keep to your budget?

Did you keep to the timescale you planned?

What was the audience reaction?

Comments:

.....

.....

.....

Signed: Date: